

September 17, 2025
By Metro Times Editorial Staff

Mark your calendar with these upcoming artistic happenings in metro Detroit

The Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit (MOCAD) is renovating for its 20th anniversary, including adding a window to invite the public into its gallery. Credit: Image courtesy of Ply+, Architects behind MOCAD's renovations

MOCAD

Ahead of its 20th anniversary, the Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit (MOCAD) is closing its main building down for renovations, from infrastructure to its Woodward Avenue facade, including adding a window to invite the public into its gallery. In the meantime, MOCAD will continue to hold programming in its Mike Kelley Mobile Homestead including Heart Land, a solo exhibition by Detroit-based artist Mary-Ann Monforton that features sculptural works built around themes of wealth and power. Opens Friday, Oct. 24; Mike Kelley Mobile Homestead at MOCAD, 4454 Woodward Ave., Detroit; mocadetroit.org. No cover.